To obtain relief in chancery, principal and legal interest must be paid. Crawford v. Harvey, 1 Blackf. 382; Futatc v. Ferguson, Ibid. 36(1. The statute upon interest docs not render the contracts upon which an illegal rate is reserved, wholly void, but simply avoids it so far as it reserves illegal interest, flays v. Miller, 12 Ind. 188. Thus if illegal interest be given by an award, a defense in a suit on the award, seeking to annul the entire award, is bad. To bring such a defense within the statute, the amount of interest included in the award should be stated in the pleading. Ibid. Collins T. Makepeace, 13 Ind. 448. Time given to the principal in a promissory note upon a usurious contract without the consent of surety does not discharge the surety. Ooodhue v. Palmer, 13...
