Pursuant to a congressional request, GAO compared commercial logistics practices with similar Department of Defense (DOD) and Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) operations, focusing on medical logistics practices at DOD hospitals and warehouses and selected private hospitals. GAO found that: (1) the DOD health care system could save millions of dollars by increasing its use of inventory management practices pioneered by leading civilian hospitals, such as the standardization of supplies, electronic ordering, and just-in-time and stockless delivery programs; (2) DOD warehouses hold inventory that would last for 36 to 95 days, and the Defense Logistics Agency (DLA), through its depot system, stores another layer of supplies that would last approximately 250 days; (3) progressive civilian hospitals maintain much smaller levels and fewer layers of supplies, have no depot system, have reduced or eliminated the need for outside warehouses and central supply rooms, and have reduced the volume of work on loading docks; (4) since 1988, VA has relied on vendors to deliver certain intravenous solutions and related supplies directly to its hospitals, and, as a result, expects this program to save approximately 75 million over a 5-year period; (5) VA implemented a pilot at 32 of its hospitals that should eliminate the need to store some of its pharmaceuticals in its warehouse system; and (6) according to a DOD evaluation of business practices associated with its medical logistics systems, changes that may be called for include revising military regulations, policies, and procedures and changing the DLA role to contracting and paying for, but not storing, military supplies.
